Third-party exit plan

One plan per material or critical arrangement. Supports CBUAE Regulation C 1/2026, Articles 13.11 and 13.12.

ABOUT THIS TEMPLATE

Leave on your terms, not theirs

An exit plan is only real when it has been tested. Write one for every material or critical arrangement, review it yearly and after any major change.

Trigger — A listed event starts the plan

Stabilise — Keep the Critical Operation running

Transition — Onboard the replacement

Migrate — Move data and services; reconcile

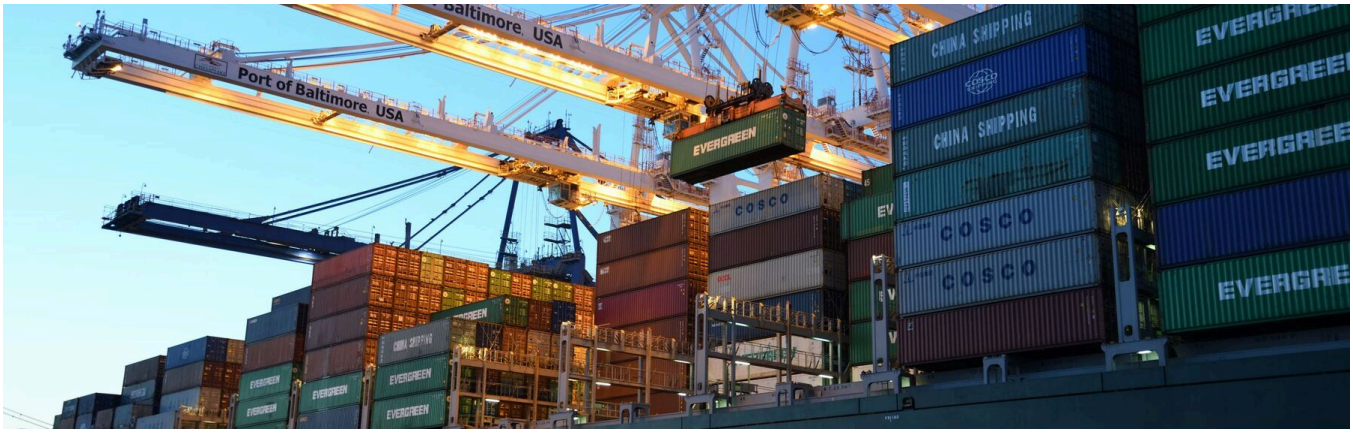

Close — Remove access; certify deletion

How to use it

1. Name the owner. The business owner of the Critical Operation owns the plan; Procurement and Risk support.
2. Be honest about substitutability. If a provider is hard to replace, the plan must say how long a move would really take.
3. Test it. A desk review each year at minimum; a walkthrough with the provider for critical arrangements.
4. Keep it with the register. The register records that a plan exists and when it was last tested.

ARTICLE 13.12

The Central Bank may require an institution to discontinue an arrangement. An executable exit plan is how you show you could.
