Third-party incident notification

For incidents at a third party that affect a Critical Operation. Supports CBUAE Regulation C 1/2026, Article 15.

ABOUT THIS TEMPLATE

Four hours starts when you detect it

When an operational risk event significantly affects a Critical Operation, the first notice to the Central Bank is due within four hours. If a vendor supports that operation, its outage can start your clock.

How to use it

1. Agree it in advance. Share Part A with critical vendors so they know what you will need from them, and how fast.
2. Use UAE time. Record every time in Gulf Standard Time.
3. Send what you know. An initial notice on time with gaps beats a complete notice late; say when the next update will come.
4. Keep the log. The internal log on the last page is your evidence of timeliness.

CHECK BEFORE USE

Deadlines here are paraphrased. Confirm the Central Bank's current reporting channel, format and requirements in the CBUAE Rulebook.

ROLES

Incident lead: runs the response and the log. Compliance: sends notices to the Central Bank. Vendor owner: gets facts from the third party. Approver: signs Part D.
